The Great Hot Cocoa Mix-Up

It all started on a _____ (adjective) winter morning when I decided to make the world's best cup of hot cocoa. I grabbed my _____ (adjective) mug, a spoon, and a big jar of _____ (noun). Easy, right? Wrong.

When I opened the pantry, I found so many ingredients — _____ (plural noun), _____ (plural noun), and something that looked suspiciously like _____ (food). I thought, "Why not add them all?" So I started _____ (verb ending in "ing") everything together like a _____ (occupation) gone wild. Just as I poured the mixture into the mug, my _____ (family member) walked in and shouted, "_____ (exclamation)! What are you doing?" But it was too late — the cocoa started _____ (verb ending in "ing") all over the counter!

The smell filled the room — it was _____ (adjective) and _____ (adjective) at the same time. Even our _____ (animal) came running, wagging its _____ (body part) like crazy. I tried to clean it up with a _____ (noun), but ended up spilling it all over the _____ (piece of furniture) instead. By the time the chaos ended, the kitchen looked like a _____ (place) made entirely of chocolate. My best friend came over, took one look, and said, "That's not cocoa, that's _____ (noun) soup!"

We laughed until our _____ (plural body part) hurt, then finally made a new batch — the right way. And you know what? It was the most _____ (adjective) cup of hot cocoa ever!
